A Temperance Meeting.

The Columbia correspondent of the Charleston Sinday News, writing under date of the 15th inst., says: "In response to a call for a meeting of the friends of temperance in South Carolina to meet for the purpose of effecting a State organization, about fifty persons assembled in Stanley's Hall last night. Col. C. E. R. Drayton, of Aiken, was called to the chair, and the Rev. A. M. Chreitzberg requested to act as Secretary. The convention or conference took the preliminary steps toward securing a State temperance organization for the purpose of securing for the counties the right of local option which is enjoyed by municipalities. To this end a State committee was formed, of which the Rev. A. Coke Smith, of Columbia, will probably be chairman. The intention of the conference was to keep the temperance question entirely out of politics, but to work on the Legislature to secure a county local option law." Thanksgiving Day.

Thursday, the 27th instant, has been set apart as a day of National thanksgiving by the proclamations of the President of the United States and of the Governors of the respective States. The citizens of this city have determined to observe the day. All places of business will be closed during the whole day, and appropriate religious exercises held in the Churches.

We would recommend the observance of the day throughout the County. Let the Churches in the County, as far as possible, meet at their accustomed places of worship and return to the great Dispencer of all blessing and the Ruler of the destinies of all Nations the profoundest gratitude of their hearts for the numbered blessings of the past and the promising future of our country's prosperity and adherence to those principles of constitutional government which promote the peace, happiness and prosperity of all sections of our common country. Let God have all the praise for our individual and National prosperity.

Whole 1.65@1.75 Will Prohibition Prohibit? MR. EDITOR :- We are soon to have an Alk. EDITOR:—We are soon to have an election in our city to determine whether or not the city shall license liquor saloons, and I ask space for a few words to my fellow citizens on this important subject.

101@114

my fellow citizens on this important subject.

All observant and right-thinking people see and feel the evit that is being done by the sale of liquor in these licented bar-rooms, and certainly a large majority of our best citizens would be glad to see it stopped entirely. But some who carnestly desire to see this result brought about are deterred from voting for "no license" by the fact that they do not believe that the sale of liquor can be stopped by a prohibition vote. Arguing from past experience they say that it is useless to pass a prohibition act which will fail to secure prohibition. They maintain that in spite of all the efforts of City Council and friends of temperance, more or less liquor will be sold, clandestinely if not openly, and that therefore it is useless and worse than useless to pass a prohibitory act. As to this let me say two things:

1. Loss liquor will be sold. Some are

wo things:
1. Less liquor will be sold. Some per
1. Less liquor will be sold. Some per 1. Less liquor will be sold. Some persons will continue to procure it, and some will still get drunk. But some who now procure it whenever they want it, will be prevented from doing so, and as a result fower will drink and fower get drunk. This will be a great gain. If only one-fourth less liquor is sold and one-fourth fower men get drunk, we shall have lessened by one-fourth the crime, the misery and the degradation which follow from drinking, and are consequent upon drunkenness. Such a result would be incalculable gain—gain to the drinkers, gain to our community, gain to everybody except the barkeepers, the wholesale dealers and the manufacturers. It would be loss only to those who are fattening on the crime, the distress, the ruin, of men women and children. As we learn the tricks of those who sell, we can, by more stringent laws and closer watchfulness lessen still more the amount of liquor sold, and decrease the amount of veil resulting therefrom. In time, I believe we can make prohibition prohibit.

2. Another point will be gained by the ion prohibit.

2. Another point will be gained by the

2. Another point will be gained by the passage of a prohibition Act which I consider of far greater importance. We shall make liquor-selling unlawful; we shall make the man who sells liquor, when the sales we have a considered to the law, and we shall make the man who sells liquor, we shall make the man who sells liquor, be he saloon-keeper or druggist, a lawbreaker. That will be a great point gained. Whenever you can get a thing condemned by law, you bring the doer of it, under the condemnation of all law-loving and law-abiding citizens. And this will be true eyen of those citizens who may not at first disapprove of the act, and who may to a certain extent be in sympathy with the actor. Fc: a little while prejudice may blind a good citizen, and sympathy may lead him to condone an offence against the law, and even to defend it, but soone or later his better judgment will come into play, and he will uphold law and condemn law-breaking. He will condeinn an unlawful act, not because he considers it wrong in itself, but simply and solely because it is unlawful—because it violates the law of the land. For example—"moonshining," as the unlicensed making of whisky is called is it violates the law of the land. For example—"moonshining," as the unlicensed making of whiskey is called, is, per se, no more morally wrong than the licensed making of it is. Yet you and I, my reader, notwithstanding any sympathy we may have felt for special individuals, you and I do look on moonshiners as outlaws. Why? Simply because they are doing unlawfully just what others may do—iswfully—i. e., distill liquor. That which makes them criminals is that they are doing it in violation of the laws. So will we all come, gradually, to look upon the saloon-keeper or druggist, who sel. s liquor contrary to law. He will become in our view an outlaw, as much so as the moonshiner, and for us to buy liquor from him will soon seem to us a participation in iswiessness. Decent, respectable, law-loving people will, as soon as prejudice wears away a little, come to look on the purchase of liquor from a salcon-keeper or druggist, who is calling in violation of the purchase of liquor from a salcon-keeper or druggist, who is calling in violation of the purchase of liquor from a salcon-keeper or druggist, who is calling in violation of the purchase of liquor from a salcon-keeper or druggist, who is calling in violation of the purchase of liquor from a salcon-keeper or druggist, who is calling in violation. away a little, come to look on the purchase of liquor from a salcon-keeper or druggist who is selling in violation of law, in the same light as they now do on its purchase from a "moonshine" wagon.

My fellow-itizens, though we may not be able, all at once to stop the sale of liquor in our city, let us at least make its sale unlawful and those who sell it law-breakers. Let us put the condemnation breakers. Let us put the condemnation of the law upon the sale and sellers, and the condemnation of the whole community will follow in time. If this accursed truffic does still live in our midst, let us at least make it hide itself and let us brand it as LAWLESS.

er his own record of 2.10, so as to beat "Maud S," Vanderbilt's great mare, the fastest animal on record, and whose time was 2.00%. The excitement was intense, 6,000 people

having assembled to witness the contest, every one being eager and expectantly looking for the favorite to appear. At about 3 o'clock

p. m. "J. I. C.," amid tremendous applause, came down the track, passing the Grand Stand of the Judges, throwing first one ear and then the other forward, as if in recognition of the cheering of the crowd, then passing once around the race course, just to get warmed up and prepare himself for the race,

the excitement running higher every minute, until "He is off! He is off!" echoed through the crowd.

And sure enough, he was off! With rapid strides he moved on, on, in-creasing his speed at every step, fairly flying through the air, as if by fairly flying through the air, as if by magic, passing around the curves like a whirlwind; then coming in plain view of the spectators, everybody on tip-toe, and the excitement of the people was at fever heat to get a glimpse of the beautiful black steed as he dashed along. Passing by the Grand Stand he slacked up, and after returning in front of the Judges' Stand, in a few moments the Board announced the record at 2.182, at the second trial at 2.14, and the third time at 2.122.

Now, ladies and gentlemen, we want it understood that, we are always in the race for giving low prices, and competing in our lines legitimately with ANYBODY, and we propose to lower our record. We hang out the board:

A CARD.

WE would like to call to the attention of the people of Anderson County a few significant facts concerning the Drug Store of HILL BROS., recently moved from Broyles' Building on Main Street to McCully's Corner on the Public Square—Smiths' old stand.

In the first place these men endeavor, by watching their business closely, to reep always on hand such Drugs, Patent Medicines, Lamps, and other articles in their line, that parties wishing to come or send
